

2008 ANNUAL MEETING
SUNDAY, APRIL 27, 2008
2 pm to 3 pm

GUEST SPEAKER-JASON SHUFF

JASON SHUFF is a descendant of the John Haldeman family. He is Past President of the Haldeman Mansion Preservation Society and has done much research on the family history and specifically on Professor Samuel Steman Haldeman.

His topic is: The Tenacious & Humanistic Professor S. S. Haldeman

We usually hear about the scientific and academic side of Dr. Haldeman, but here is an opportunity to learn about his personality and his human and possibly humorous side.

CONOYTOWN EDUCATIONAL DAY

NATIVE AMERICAN CUSTOMS AND CRAFTS

MAY 17, 2008

CONTINUOUSLY FROM 10 AM TO 5 P M

Admission fee $2.00 per person over age of 12.

This day of education and fun will have something of interest for persons of all ages. Demonstrations, displays and games will be continuous from 10 AM until 5 PM.

CONOYTOWN was a Native American village circa 1718-1743 which existed on the land now occupied by the Haldeman Mansion and surrounding area. There will be displays and demonstrations authentically depicting daily activities in the village, including gardening, food preparation, edible and medicinal plants, display of trade goods, basket and pottery making, flint knapping, tool and weapon making. There will be a "teaching table" with animal skins, skulls, teeth, claws for teaching and explanations of their uses.

There will be a flute player and story teller.

Come take a step back in time to the 1700's in CONOYTOWN. Play a game or two, watch an arrow head take shape, listen to an ancient story about how fire came to earth.

The Haldeman Mansion Preservation Society volunteers will have food available throughout the day.
